Discourse Competence

Discourse competence concerns the selection, sequencing, and arrangement of words, structures and utterances to achieve a unified spoken or written text. (Celce-Murcia et al. 1995:13)

Why Celce-Murcia et al.'s model?

The proposed model has been motivated by their “belief in the potential of a direct, explicit approach to the teaching of communicative skills, which would require detailed description of what communicative competence entails in order to use the sub-components as a content base in syllabus design” (1995:6)

Text

Explicit in the statement is that communication happens in text, spoken or written. Thus communicating is creating text, and this involves more than simply creating grammatical sentences.

CULTURAL LEVEL

Literacy Levels

- Performative Level (SD)
- Functional Level (SMP)
- Informational Level (SMA)
- Epistemic Level (Uni)

Performative Level

(Language accompanying action)

Learners can

- Use English to accompany actions
- participate in classroom and school interactions,
- Recognise simple written English

Functional Level

Learners can

- use English to get things done
- use English for survival purposes (buying and selling, asking and giving permission, making and canceling appointments, read and write simple texts, read popular science, etc.)

Informational Level

Learners can

- use English to access accumulated knowledge (ilmu pengetahuan)
- use English in informal and formal contexts

Epistemic Level

Learners can

- use English to transform knowledge (doing research, writing reports, lecturing etc.)
- use English for aesthetic purposes

Coverage (Ruang Lingkup)

Junior High School

- Procedure
- Recount
- Narrative
- Report

Senior High School

- News item
- Discussion
- Explanation
- Exposition
- Review

Competence Standards (SK) & Basic Competence (KD)

SPOKEN

- Short functional texts
- Transactional conv.
- Interpersonal conv.
- Monologues

WRITTEN

- Short functional texts
- Essays in various genres

Process Standards

Process Standard

(Bab IV, pasal 20)

- Perencanaan Proses Pembelajaran meliputi silabus dan rencana pelaksanaan pembelajaran (RPP) yang memuat sekurang-kurangnya tujuan pembelajaran, materi ajar, metode pembelajaran, sumber belajar, dan penilaian hasil belajar

Tujuan Pembelajaran

- The communicative purpose of text
 - To give direction (procedure)
 - To describe (descriptive)
 - To entertain (narrative)
 - To discuss (discussion)
 - To review (review)
 - Etc.

Communicative purpose

- Applies in all text forms:
 - Transactional conversation
 - Interpersonal conversation
 - Short functional texts (spoken and written)
 - Monologue
 - Essay

For example:

Procedural text (Giving direction)

- Transactional conversation: giving directions in various contexts (kitchen, street etc.)
- Interpersonal conversation: talking about how to do things casually for the sake of maintaining conversation

Procedural Text

- Short functional text (spoken): directions, announcements etc.
- Short functional text (written): directions (on the street, medicine etc.)
- Monologue: cooking demonstration, arranging flowers, making paper worms etc.
- Essay: recipe, manuals etc.

Text Structures

- Transactional: Opening^transaction^closing
- Interpersonal: similar, but more open ended
- Short functional text (spoken): Getting attention^directions^ closing
- Short functional texts (written): depending on the context
- Monologue and essay: title^materials^method, (any type of closing)

Linguistic Features (Procedural Text)

- Imperative (direct and subtle)
- Politeness expressions
- Noun phrases
- Gambits (clarify the communicative intent)
- Expressions to convey the intent of giving and demanding services.

	Structural emphasis	Communicative emphasis	Literacy emphasis
Role models for teachers and learners	'philologists' or 'linguists'	'native speakers'	'discourse analysts' and 'intercultural explorers'
Primary instructional role of teacher	Organizing overt instruction and transformed practice	Organizing situated practice, overt instruction, and transformed practice	Organizing critical framing as well as situated practice, overt instruction, and transformed practice
Primary mode of teacher response	Correcting (enforcing a prescriptive norm)	Responding (to communicative intent)	Responding (to language as used), focusing attention for reflection and revision
Predominant learner roles	Difference to authority: focus on absorption and analysis of material presented	Active participation (focus on using language in face-to-face interaction)	Active engagement: focus on using language, reflecting on language use, and revising

ELT in Literacy Perspective

Principles

- ELT is to make people literate.
- Literate person: able to participate in the modern community life that requires English
- In the community, people USE English.
- ELT is placed in the perspective of literacy education

Language USE

Secondary Schools

- Integrating listening, speaking, reading and writing through communicative purpose
- Developing suitable materials
- Organising learning experiences based on the literacy principles

Learning Experiences

Teaching Techniques?

- Any techniques that work in the teacher's environment will do
- Grammar exercises
- Oral drills
- Etc.

As long as things move towards language use / communication

How do we integrate the 4 skills?

- By organising materials and learning experiences into spoken cycle (listening and speaking) and written cycle (reading and writing)
- By organising activities in every cycle into four stages (building knowledge of the field, modelling of text, joint construction, independent construction)

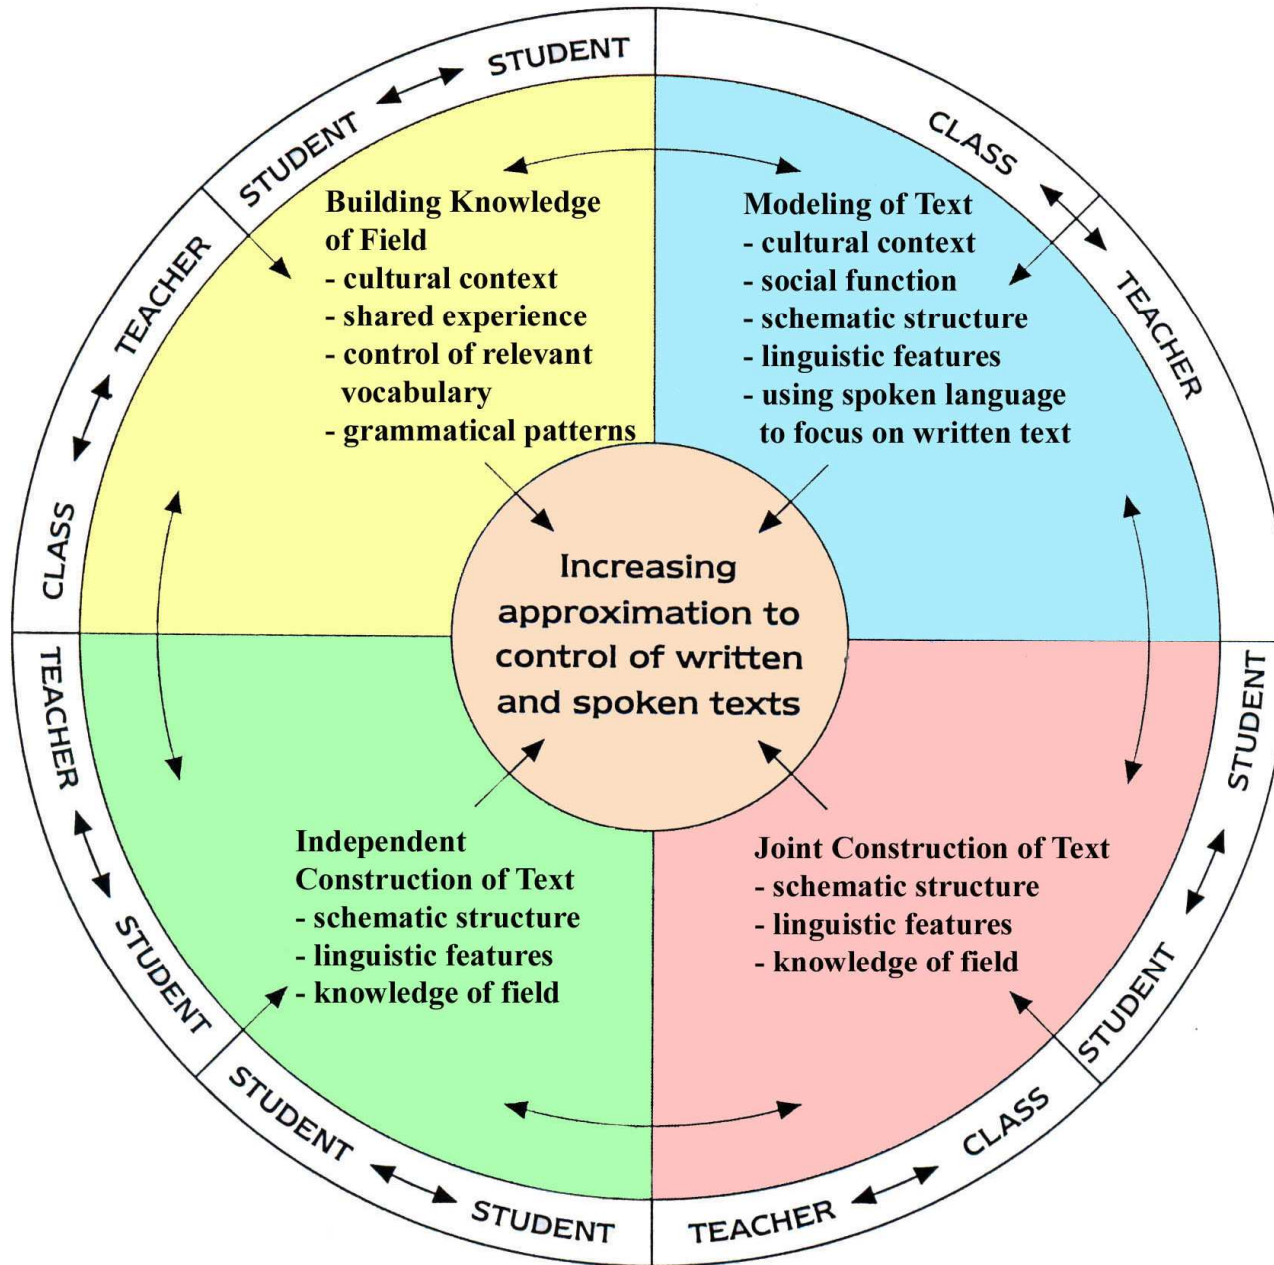

How do we plan our lessons?

By Organising lesson plans based on the text type or genre.

- The purpose of text (e.g. giving direction)
- The structure of the text (e.g. recipe)
- Linguistic features (e.g. imperative, politeness, gambits, noun phrase)

Can we use other ways of organising lesson plan?

We can as long as:

- We are sure that they are compatible the basic philosophy of literacy education / language as communication
- Those methods have been tried out, studied, and proved to be successful in EFL contexts.

What should be at the heart of any plans?

- Plans should be geared around NEGOTIATION OF MEANING
- NEGOTIATION IS THE KEY TO DISCOURSE COMPETENCE
- It is carried out interpersonally and logico-
semantically

How do we negotiate?

■ Interpersonally

■ Logicosemantically

Where in the sentence does interpersonal meaning reside?

* In the Mood area

Mood = Subject + Finite

* Mood expresses:

- Attitudes
- Feelings
- Judgment
- Etc.

Negotiating interpersonally

A : I am sleepy.

B : Are you?

C : I love her.

D : You do, don't you.

E : I cleaned the room!

D : No, you didn't!

Negotiating logicosemantically

A : I am sleepy.

B : Sleepy or hungry?

A : Both, actually.

C : What's your name?

D : Hartati

C : Where do you live?

D : Jalan Diponegoro.

Negotiation in Writing

- Focused on old and new information

- Focused on Theme and Rheme

Old and New Information

Once upon a time, there was an old lady.

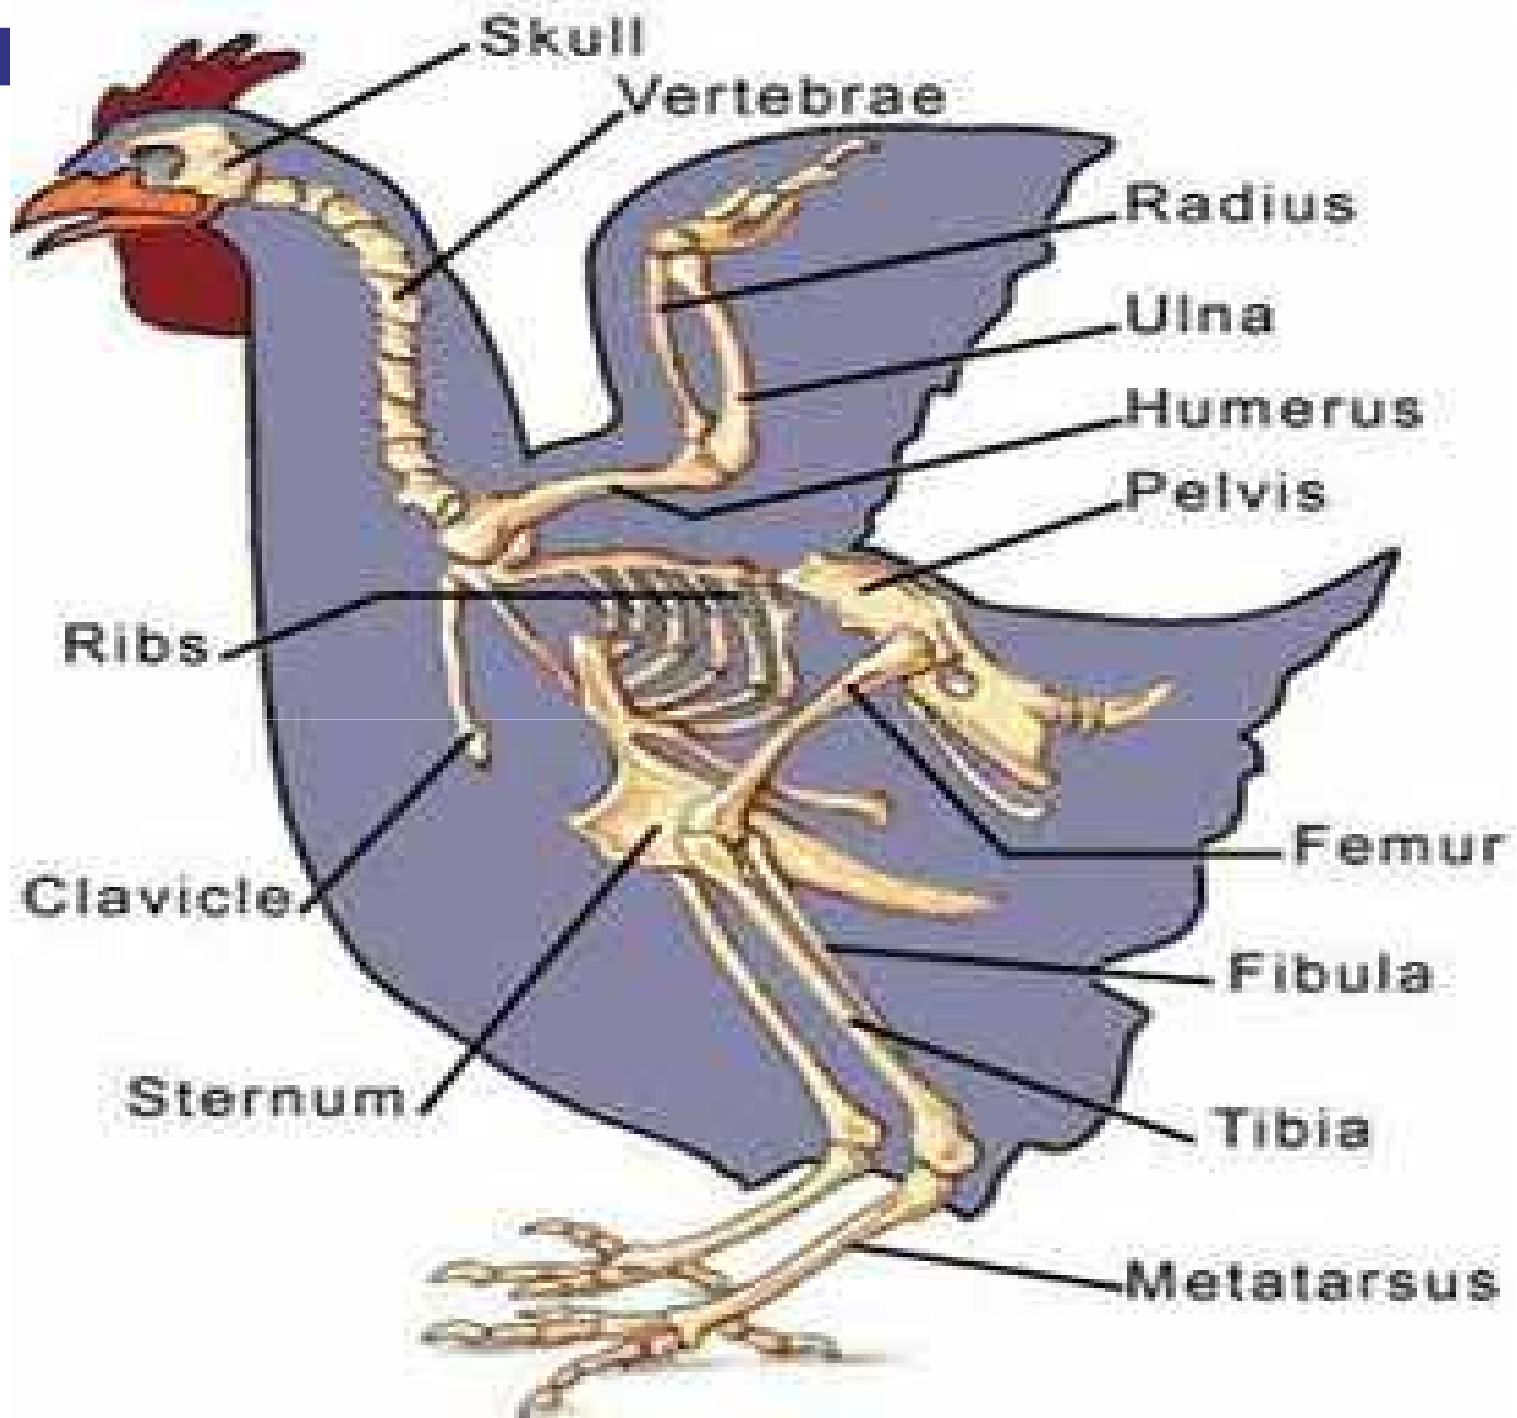

She was very poor, but she was happy.

She had a handsome son called Ande-Ande Lumut.

He was a fine young man.

Many girls liked him.

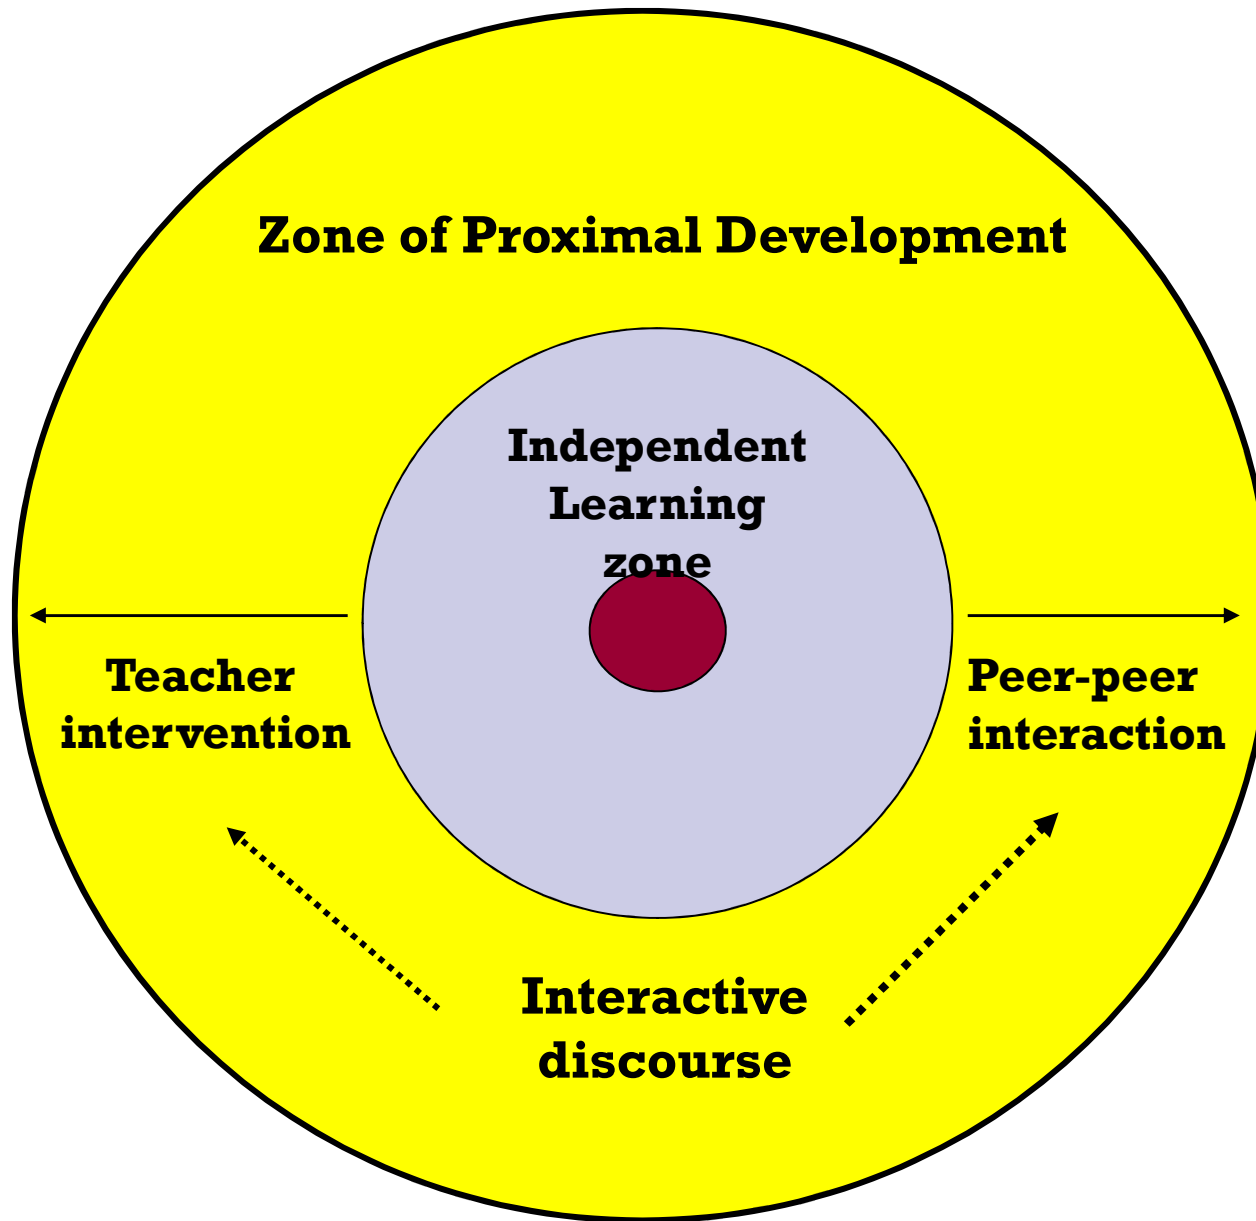

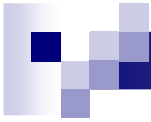

Negotiation is

 The Communication Engine

 The key to discourse competence

Assessment Standards
